Battalion

This month's progression has been by far excellent. We accomplished our open house which included the raider, drill, and our robotics team, this attracted more future cadets and will increase our numbers for next year's battalion. We also had our top leaders represent our school at the Monster Jam event and perform Cologuard In Front of thousands of people. That's what success looks like. The raiders have been training extremely far for their best of the best competition happening March 5th. Drill team has been training precisely for our home hosted competition on March 26th. Our goal is to come home with wins and nothing but success, our endless training has proved that this can happen. We wait for these upcoming dates to show our pride and strength.

Built to be Unbreakable,

LTC Thomas

Alpha Company

Company Commander: Cadet Nixon

First Sergeant: Cadet Carpenter

Alpha company has been doing a range of things. We did current events built on positivity like a new release of a video game to a world record being done through stacking candy. We also played some kick ball for PT but it was cut short and we played across the ocean. Soon there is going to be a competition going on for raiders. Me and some other alpha cadets also participated in an open house which went very well. We've been messing with the robots as well just seeing what else can be accomplished with them. We also worked on some cadet portfolios which may be the last time for some of us. Right now we are just preparing for the cadet challenge which is right around the corner. This pretty much sums up a month with alpha company.

Bravo Company

Company commander: Cadet Rodriguez

First Sergeant: Cadet Hodges

The month of February can be described as plain as there were no major events in which Bravo was a part of. We have spent the majority of the month learning in the classrooms. Later in the month, we helped rebuild and fix up the look of the supply room. We received all of the parts to the new shelves in the supply room from Atlantic Garden Center and we were able to construct shelves. After this we were tasked with reorganizing the shoes and cleaning up the whole room. We are now moving into March, where we are preparing to have the St. Patrick's parade as well as two competitions coming up.

Charlie Company

Company Commander: Cadet Haugland

First Sergeant: Cadet Douglas

The company has been doing the usual thing throughout the past month. The Cadets have been going through current event briefing and with orders from Chief we were not allowed to cover anything depressing like covid and Russia. The Cadet also has helped out with redoing the supply room by assembling new shelves and cleaning out old equipment that the program no longer needs. All of this has helped the S4 have a better place to work and to almost have an inventory of the supply room. While not always with the entire company, the drill and raider team members have been preparing for the best of the best competition on 3/5/22. While not the busiest month for the company I can still see improvement in the company in areas of leadership and drill, I still see room for improvement.
