BATTALION

BC - LIEUTENANT COLONEL JACKSON

We've hit the ground running, and in the month of October, this Battalion succeeded tremendously. We graciously accepted a check from the generous Tim Mock. We've completed two Raider and Drill Competitions, growing more in each. Our higher LET cadets succeeded in briefing the principal of Millbrook High School with our upcoming projects. Not only was our continuous improvement project approved, but our service learning project was as well, which allows us to recruit more students to JROTC, and feed families in need in our own community! Drill, and Raiders continue to have healthy attendance, and the JLAB team is now preparing for their upcoming test.

ALPHA COMPANY

COMPANY COMMANDER - CAPTAIN MILLER

Alpha company's upper lets have been focused on multiple projects, while the let 1s have been practicing rifle drill. The projects include; our battalion's continuous improvement project which is led by our Battalion Commander and our Service learning project, which is led by our Command Sergeant Major. On top of this Alpha has begun working on our skits for the Dine-in. All of our cadets have chosen a field to work in to help the Dine-in run smoothly, Cadet Edwards is the OIC for the entire event. Currently Alpha company has won three different battalion wide competition flyers, despite being the smallest company in the battalion.

BRAVO COMPANY

COMPANY COMMANDER - CAPTAIN VANDERMEER

As a company, we have been focusing on various projects as well. One of them being the recruitment video that connects with the continuous improvement project. The video encourages students in middle school and/or high school to join the JROTC program at Millbrook. Our S5 has done a remarkable job of making the video! Another thing we did was host company PT, in which we played soccer. It was very successful, especially with all the cadets within every company. We had fun and enjoyed ourselves.

Charlie company has been exploring and achieving great things such as practicing drill and helping plan multiple events. Each cadet has contributed to the "22" Hour Run by discussing what is needed and what will be done during and before the event. For the Halloween party that was hosted, every cadet brought food & drinks for their company, and wore their costumes and enjoyed movies that they chose.
